Preamble

The Euronaval Conference (hereinafter referred to as “the Conference”) is a professional event organised by SOGENA, headquartered at 47 rue de Monceau, 75008 Paris, France (hereinafter “the Organiser”).

These terms apply to every participant (hereinafter “the Participant”) who has registered and obtained a personal access badge through the official Euronaval registration platform. By confirming their registration, the Participant acknowledges that they have read, understood and accepted these Terms and Conditions.

1. Access Conditions

Access to the Conference is strictly limited to individuals who have registered and hold a valid personal badge. Each Participant must present a valid photo ID when entering the venue.

Badges are strictly personal and non-transferable. They may not be lent, exchanged or reproduced. The Organiser reserves the right to deny entry to any person presenting a falsified or misused badge, or one that does not correspond to their identity.

2. Badge Printing and Presentation

To be valid:

- The badge must be printed in colour on A4 paper, without altering its size or layout.
- Printing must be clear and legible: any badge that is damaged, smudged, partially printed or illegible may be refused at the entrance.
- The badge must be worn visibly at all times while attending the Conference.

Each badge contains a unique QR code used for access control. Any duplication, forgery or resale of a badge is strictly prohibited and may result in legal action.

3. Loss, Theft or Misuse

In the event of loss, theft or misuse of a badge, only the first person presenting a valid badge will be granted entry.

Participants must report to the registration desk with valid identification and a copy of their confirmation email.

Participants are reminded that photographing or copying their badge may allow fraudulent use. It is strongly advised not to display the badge outside the venue before or after the event.

4. Cancellation, Postponement and Refund Policy

4.1 Cancellation by the Organiser (outside Force Majeure)

In the event the Conference is cancelled, attendee registrations will be refunded.

4.2 Cancellation due to Force Majeure or another Legitimate Case

Cancellation of the Conference in its entirety due to Force Majeure or another Legitimate Case.

The Parties expressly agree that the Organiser may cancel the Conference in its entirety due to Force Majeure or another Legitimate Case, at any time before it opens to participants.

Attendee registrations will not be refunded.

The participant does not undertake to exercise any recourse against the Organiser due to the application of this article.

4.3 Postponement by the Organiser (outside Force Majeure)

In the event the Conference is postponed, attendee registrations remain valid. Attendees who are unable to participate on the new date shall be refunded the amount of their registration.

4.4 Postponement due to Force Majeure or another Legitimate Case

The Parties expressly agree that the Organiser may postpone the Conference in its entirety in the event of Force Majeure or for another Legitimate Case, at any time before it opens to participants.

The Organiser will inform the participants of the new organisational arrangements for the Conference as soon as possible.

The participant may not refuse the postponement.

Attendee registrations will not be refunded.

The participant undertakes not to exercise any recourse against the Organiser due to the application of this article.

4.5 Cancellation of the Conference by the Organiser (outside Force Majeure)

Other expenses incurred (accommodation, transport, etc.) will not be reimbursed by the organiser.

4.6 Other expenses incurred

Other expenses incurred (accommodation, transport, etc.) will not be reimbursed by the organiser.

In case of a postponement by the organiser, outside force majeure, other expenses incurred (accommodation, transport, etc.) will not be reimbursed by the organiser.

In case of force majeure, other expenses incurred (accommodation, transport, etc.) will not be reimbursed by the organiser.

4.7 Force Majeure

It is expressly agreed between the Parties that a case of 'Force Majeure' justifying, at any time, the cancellation, postponement, interruption or exclusion of the Conference, whether in its entirety or with regard to one or more auditors, constitutes any case qualified as such pursuant to article 1218 of the Civil Code and by the case law in force.

In particular, but without limitation, the following situations are considered to be cases of Force Majeure:

- any administrative, legislative, jurisdictional or equivalent decision, any sanitary, climatic, economic, political or social situation or any risk relating to the safety of goods or persons taking part in the Conference, at local, national or international level, which could not reasonably have been foreseen at the time the marketing of the Conference was launched, beyond the Organiser's control and which make it impossible to organise, assemble, open or hold all or part of the Conference, which entail risks of disturbance or disorder likely to prevent the organisation and/or smooth running of the Conference and the effects of which cannot be avoided by appropriate measures;
- any decree declaring a state of emergency, or a state of health emergency, any ministerial, prefectural or municipal order (or any equivalent administrative measure), in particular one prohibiting the gathering of a number of people lower than the capacity of the Conference;
- all administrative, legislative, jurisdictional or equivalent decisions issued by the French State, the European Union, a third State or an international organisation that the French authorities (for decisions not issued by them) must respect, preventing either the participation of one or more participants in the Conference, or the presentation of certain materials at the Conference;
- any prohibition or refusal of authorisation issued by the French and/or European authorities.

Other Legitimate Case

The following constitute an 'Other Legitimate Case': any technical, economic, political, social, health or other reason, or due to the precautionary principle, leading the Organiser to consider that the conditions are not met to organise, assemble, open or hold the Conference under the conditions initially planned, whether in its entirety or with regard to one or more participants, without this decision falling within the provisions of article 1218 of the Civil Code or meeting the conditions of unforeseeability, exteriority and irresistibility and even in the absence of an administrative ban on assembly.

This would be the case, without limitation, in the following circumstances: weather conditions, epidemic or any other health risk, armed conflict, revolt, boycott (political, consumer or other), risk of attack, strike or industrial action (general, sectoral or directed against the EURONAVAL CONFERENCE), interruption, even partial, of local, regional, national or international means of transport or accommodation, impossibility or major difficulty for participants and/or selected service providers for the organisation of the Conference (or some of them) to access the Conference site, or, due to one of these circumstances, insufficient numbers of participants to enable the financial equilibrium of the Conference and/or its commercial representativeness to be achieved.

5. Personal Data

5.1 Data Collected

Personal data collected during registration are processed by SOGENA in compliance with the French Data Protection Act (Loi Informatique et Libertés) and the GDPR. The following information is required: first name, last name and e-mail address of the buyer, as well as the information necessary for issuing the invoice: company name, address, zip code, city, country and EU VAT number (or business number for non-EU companies). This number is mandatory for all companies established within or outside the European Union.

The data are used exclusively for managing participation in the Conference and communicating information related to the event.

5.2 Data Retention

Personal data shall be retained for a period of 2 years from the end of the event, unless longer statutory retention obligations apply.

5.3 Rights of Participants

Participants have the right to access, interrogation, rectification, objection, erasure, restriction of processing and data portability. These rights may be exercised by contacting the Data Protection Officer (DPO):

- Email: vosdroits@sogena-events.com
- Postal address: SOGENA – 47 rue de Monceau, 75008 Paris, France

The Organiser may request proof of identity. The response period will begin only once such proof has been received.

Participants are informed that they also have the right to lodge a complaint with the Commission Nationale de l'Informatique et des Libertés (CNIL).

5.5 Subcontractors and Hosting

Personal data may be transmitted to subcontractors strictly necessary to the performance of services related to participation. This includes DUNE INTERACTIVE, provider of the registration system (Ticketera) and technical management of the EURONAVAL website.

Personal data are hosted on servers located within the European Union. They will not be shared with third parties for marketing or promotional purposes without prior consent.

6. Image Rights

An official photographer and video team acting on behalf of the organiser will cover the entire exhibition. By taking part in EURONAVAL CONFERENCE, you authorise the organiser to use images featuring participants and speakers in any communication or promotional media related to the event, for an unlimited period of time.

7. Liability

Participants are solely responsible for the use of their badge. The Organiser cannot be held liable for loss, theft, duplication or fraudulent use.

The Organiser accepts no liability for technical issues related to printing or access control, nor for disruptions caused by force majeure or administrative decisions.

8. Disputes

The Euronaval Conference's general rules and technical rules are governed by French law, excluding its conflict-of-law rules. Exclusive jurisdiction is granted to the Commercial Court of Paris. Only documents drafted in French shall be considered authoritative.

9. Acceptance of Terms

Participation in the Euronaval Conference implies full and unconditional acceptance of these General Terms and Conditions of Use of the Badge.
